

UNMONUMENT–SINCE 2008

Jaehoon Lee

The big, dense forest, a so-called society, has grown through human interchanges or communication -acquisition of new knowledge, information and emotion-; in other words, the collective has developed a human sphere, life, by the tools of communication and harmonized me with the others, and it has been more and more developing.

In the society, for us, there exist certain ideas. They are a Utopia having the social values given by the society, a certain category, or titles having the values of certain terms. They cause us certain ideal actions and thoughts, and these actions and thoughts become ideal aims of each idea.

From that, the actions become truths or righteous things in the line of common sense, a social common idea. For instance, by the society are agreed upon certain actions concerning ideas, such as the ideas regarding beauty and true or false things, or the terms of family, teacher, student and profession, or the social titles originated in the characteristics of human actions.

In sum, humans prescribe human essential values and multilateral ideas for themselves and distinguish them from the rest.
