- Artist Note

Creating something from nothing.

Finding something new. Here, the new thing means good, not bad.

Here, the good thing has not been considered as good.

A creator is a person who feels and make it.

The thing is not made outside but made in his or her own world.

The thing which exists.

A phenomenon, and things exist besides the phenomenon.

A world, an autonomic nervous system, and things except those two.

A phenomenon, and things beyond the phenomenon.

A phenomenon, and things which can be separated from the phenomenon.

The important thing is a phenomenon and things outside the phenomenon.

Meanings that are great to me.

Values which I find out. The fullness which I feel.

Things which are beyond a substance.

The absolute things which are relative one.

Things which are not exchangeable.

Things which are formed in one's personal history.

Things which I believe at that moment. Things which are recognized by me.

Carrots, white radishes, and cabbages and others harvested from the field.

Their stories and histories.

Things which are not consumed and have never been consumed.

Things which cannot be created and cannot be given to someone else even created.

To complete mine, I have to generate.
